DOCTORS HAVE SIGNS

ONE MAN ANNOUNCED THAT HE BURNED KEROSENE.

SECOND "GASLESS" SUNDAY

"I'm a doctor. Don't shoot. The above alibi and plea was painted across the windshield of one of the few automobiles to be seen in the streets of Indianapolis yesterday, when the second gasolineless Sonday, requested by the federal fuel administration, was ob-Another car hore the statement, "I am a doctor." One driver put forth the plea in words chalked on his windshield that his car burned kerosene. A crowd of boys in Irvington about to hurl the cry of "slacker" at one automobile driver, withheld the cry as the machine drew near and it was seen the car was of an old vintage and not in the best of condition, while the driver was a than on the preceding Sunday, according to Russell B Harrison, secretary of the Marlon County Council of Defense, and Martin Hehfuss, Jr., fuel administrator for Marlon county, both of whom made investigations during the day.

The license numbers of a few cars that were in use when apparently no emergency existed were obtained by Mr. Harrison. The names of the owners of these cars will be ascertained and recorded in the council of defense offices in order that it may be learned whether certain persons intend to persist in ignoring the appeal each Sunday.

The Council of National Defense urges early Christmas

The Council of National Defense urges the people of this country to confine their Christmas giving (except to children) to useful articles, to spread the buying over a longer period than usual, and to carry parcels, as necessary measures of labor conservation. Stores must not employ larger numbers of helpers at Christmas time, therefore it is necessary to buy gifts early. It is none too soon to BEGIN MANUAL.

Advance sale of plush coats

All sizes for women and misses—plenty in large sizes, even up to size 56.

The plush coats occupy 92 lineal feet of racks—packed solid—and there are plush coats in reserve!

The woman who buys a plush coat in this sale will be glad she did. It is safe to say that there will not be, this winter, the opportunity to buy them for less—and it seems certain that prices will be considerably higher.

It is certain that there will not be later an assortment comparable with the one now presented.

There are coats by the hundreds—coats for the miss, for the elderly woman, every kind of a coat for a little girl of 8 to a coat to fit a woman who requires a size 56.

Taking the public into our confidence

Telling them how it came about-that plush coats can be still sold at such reasonable prices.

Almost a year ago-there was "wild-catting" in plushes-makers and individuals speculated on this fabric-prices changed over night—they seemed to be heading to record heights. Many makers, in order to safeguard themselves, bought tremendous quantities. But it soon developed that many overreached themselves. So much money was tied up in plushes that some makers, in order to save their
